John joined YPOL in 2020 and has extensive experience in insurance litigation acting for both local and international insurers and underwriting agencies. He has acted for a variety of insureds including state and local government entities, commercial and residential occupiers, head and sub-contractors in construction-related matters, licensed hotels and security contractors and various qualified professionals.

Before joining YPOL Lawyers, John also worked in a number of other specialist insurance litigations firms and his areas of expertise include:

- general insurance law
- professional indemnity claims
- products and public liability claims
- subrogated recovery actions

Examples of John's recent experience include:

- acting in numerous professional indemnity claims against solicitors and other qualified professionals;
- defending liability claims for both personal injury and property damage in NSW, Queensland and the ACT;
- acting for head and subcontractors in relation to construction site accidents and navigating complex dual insurance disputes;
- acting for hotels/clubs and security contractors defending liability claims arising from assaults; and
- assisting with complicated coverage advice in professional indemnity claims against large financial institutions;

John is a member of the Law Society of New South Wales and the Australian Insurance Law Association
